Call for 2017 Visiting Students Programs for International Students

Date：19-07-2017 | 【Print】【close】

1. Introduction

The University of Chinese Academy of Sciences (UCAS) is a higher education institution, mainly focusing on graduate education. Its predecessor, GUCAS (the Graduate University of Chinese Academy of Sciences) was built in 1978 as the first graduate school in China. UCAS accepts international students through 16 UCAS schools and over 100 institutes of Chinese Academy of Sciences (CAS).

In November, 2016, Shenzhen government and UCAS signed an cooperative agreement to build UCAS(Shenzhen) basing on Shenzhen Institutes of Advanced Technology, Chinese Academy of Science (hereinafter referred to as "SIAT").

SIAT offers the visiting student program and exchange student program to international students. International students who would like to undertake research work at SIAT as a visiting student or exchange student may apply to Graduate Students Office. It is recommended that before submitting applications, the applicant should get in touch with his/her prospective supervisor at SIAT and discuss the research plan with the supervisor. International students who are recommended by our partner institutions may apply for the exchange student program, otherwise they should apply for the visiting student program.

The duration of the visiting student program and the exchange student program ranges from 3 months to 2 years. Upon successful completion, a non-degree certificate of advanced study will be awarded to the visiting or exchange student.

All the programs are offered in English.

Visiting students programs commonly last for 2 month to 2 years. A non-degree certificate of study can be awarded if the visiting student successfully completes his study at SIAT. Official transcript could also be provided upon request.
